THE VERSO

by belavey x FALCK

Less bag. More precision.

The Verso is the first collaboration between design collective belavey and manufaktur FALCK — a compact sling bag stripped down to what you actually carry: wallet, phone, keys, and maybe a pair of sunglasses. Nothing more. Nothing less.

A Collaboration with Substance

belavey designs, FALCK manufactures — and that division of labor is exactly what makes The Verso special. The concept comes from design collective belavey; the execution comes from a manufaktory that otherwise produces high-end leather goods in the premium segment — the same Italian family-run manufaktory that has been behind FALCK's main line for three generations. Handmade in Italy isn't just a label here; it means genuine craftsmanship, construction, and material quality on a level usually found only in bags well above this price point. Not a mass-produced product out of Asia, but a manufaktory pedigree you can see and feel.

Reinterpreting a Bestseller

The Verso isn't a new shape — it's a new reading of one. Its silhouette follows the S01, FALCK's best-selling sling bag in full-grain leather, carrying that same deliberate, pared-back geometry into a second material: nylon. The bag is complemented by a modular pouch that attaches directly to the shoulder strap, adding extra storage when you need it without compromising the compact base form.

The Material: Limonta 1893

The Verso is made exclusively from nylon by Limonta 1893, an Italian textile mill with over 130 years of experience whose fabrics are used by luxury houses including Prada, among many others in the fashion world. Not interchangeable, off-the-shelf nylon, but a material known for its density, hand-feel, and durability — rarely found at this price point.

Details You Can Feel

The material quality carries through to the hardware: every zipper is metal, as are the fittings on the shoulder strap and the bag itself. No plastic shortcuts, no loud logos — just precisely finished details built to last rather than to show off.

Four Colors

At launch, The Verso will be available in four colorways — ranging from understated to statement-making, all within the pared-back, Bauhaus-inspired design language FALCK is known for.

Who Is The Verso For?

The Verso is made for anyone on the move who doesn't want to carry more than necessary: on city trips, between meetings, airports, and coffee shops, in the everyday shuffle between the subway and the office. This audience knows exactly what they need and carries deliberately little else. That's precisely what The Verso is built for — an expression of a “less but better” mindset: one material, one clear shape, no distractions. The modular pouch lets you expand your storage when needed, without the bag losing its compact, essentials-only character.

Now on Kickstarter

The Verso is launching as a Kickstarter campaign from belavey x FALCK. Backers who get in early secure the bag at preferred pricing and become part of a collaboration that brings together design thinking and Italian manufaktory craftsmanship.
